MOOChub.org - What is it?

On the MOOChub, the common platform for open online courses in German-speaking countries, those who are eager to learn and those interested in further education will find a large selection of courses from various subject areas.

MOOChub.org is an initiative by various institutions, universities, university associations and university-related associations that combine and present their digital learning platforms and MOOC offers in one place.

The founding members consist of TU Graz with its learning platform iMooX, TH Lübeck with its subsidiary oncampus, the Hasso Plattner Institute (Potsdam) with its portal openHPI as well as the Virtual University of Bavaria (vhb) with its open online course programme OPEN vhb and the AI Campus (Berlin).

The MOOChub aims to provide free access to high-quality online education - for work, study or personal development.
